

Information Technology

To support the development of your employees' skills in IT The Warrington Business School offers a range of flexible training courses to improve your staff's computer skills to increase effectiveness in their role and workplace efficiency.

Why do your employees need training?

Information Technology skills are required in all industry areas, with different levels of competency required dependent on job specification and business needs.

Who should do this training?

All staff who use IT skills in their daily work, who have basic or no qualifications in IT, or whose qualifications or experience of IT requires updating.

What's involved?

The courses are flexible and are designed to allow employees to study and learn within their workplace, at times to suit your company, causing minimal disruption to the working day.

What type of training is available?

Courses offered allow staff to achieve a full Level 1 qualification, as well as bespoke training solutions to match the individual needs of your company. Delivery of courses is in small groups, via distance learning or on a one to one basis, to meet staff and organisation requirements.

Why choose us as your training provider?

We are a grade 1 provider and fully understand the needs within our sectors. We will work with you to provide a service that is tailored to meet your specific organisation needs. We ensure that the delivery is flexible; at a time and place to suit you and is delivered by highly qualified staff with relevant occupational competence within the field.

Key Contact:

Sue McGreavy 01925 494313
Sector Specialist smcgreavy@warrington.ac.uk

training@thewbs.co.uk
www.thewbs.co.uk
0845 849 0020