Painting & Decorating Apprenticeships at NVQ Level 2 & 3

To support the development of your employees' skills to meet the constantly changing construction industry and the needs of your organisation. Courses from Foundation to Advanced Apprenticeships are available at The Warrington Business School.

What are Apprenticeships?

Apprenticeships are training programmes funded by the Government. They have been designed to provide 16–18 year olds with a way to combine college studies and on-the job training, to meet the needs of both employers and learners. Apprenticeships are also accessible for employees over 19.

Why are Apprenticeships different?

Apprentices are your employees and will be trained in partnership with you to become a tradesperson in the areas your business requires. Your organisation will have skilled workers, trained to your requirements and qualified to the British Industrial Standards, to support the development and growth of your business.

Why should business get involved?

Apprenticeships make good business sense as skill shortages are still one of the major threats to UK companies. Having trained employees with the relevant skills will help to fill shortages, minimise staff turnover, reduce workplace accidents and increase productivity.

Apprenticeships are a proven way to train your team. They can enhance your organisation; making it more effective and competitive by addressing skills gaps directly. Apprentices tend to be eager and loyal to the company investing in them, thus reducing staff turnover. Apprentices will gain the relevant qualifications to meet the British Industrial Standards and will increase productivity and repeat business.

How do Apprenticeships work?

The programme runs for two years and is bespoke to your organisational needs, delivered at a time and place to suit you. Assessments will take place on site and the employer will be informed of the apprentices progress throughout their programme.

Why choose The Warrington Business School as your training provider?

We are an approved grade 1 training provider for many awarding bodies and work closely with the Sector Skills Council- Construction Skills. All our staff are highly qualified with recent trade backgrounds and hold vast experience within the construction industry.
